

Drs. Jordan and Esull, and Major Gilham, Professor of Chemistry in the Military Institute, returned to this place late last night from Covington, where they had gone for the purpose of attending a post mortem examination of Miss Pharr, whose death took place in the month of March last. Rumors had been rife in the community, and had found their way into the public prints, that she came to her death by foul means at the hands of her physician, Dr. Thompson, to whom she was said to be engaged. These had become so common that Dr. T., in order to vindicate himself, instituted suits against several prominent citizens of Covington for slander, laying his damages at a high amount. The defendants, in order to relieve themselves, determined upon an examination, and at their instance the Coroner summoned a jury of inquest, of whom Drs. Jordan and Esull, of this place, and Dr. Woodson of Pineville, (the latter at the instance of Dr. T.) were in attendance. Major Gilham was also present to submit to a chemical analysis the contents of the stomach.

On Saturday morning they repaired to the place of burial and took up the body, which was recognized by several witnesses, and conveyed it to a room near at hand. All were required to leave the room except the physicians and Major G., though Dr. T. is said to have done so with great reluctance. The body, though somewhat decayed and very much blackened, was still in a remarkable state of preservation. Upon examination she was discovered to have been eniente, as has been suspected; a fetus above five months old being found in the uterus. They next examined the stomach and found it to be entire. It was taken out and placed in possession of Maj. Gilham, who will leave here in a day or two for some of the northern cities, in order to have the assistance of an experienced chemist in submitting it to the chemical tests. It is very doubtful whether they will be able to discover anything, as strychnine, the agent supposed to have been used, diffuses itself very rapidly through the system, and is very difficult to detect at any time, and much more so after four or five months shall have elapsed.

After completing the examination they repaired to the hotel, where, after consultation, they communicated the result of the investigation to Wm. Skeen, Esq., the Attorney of the Commonwealth, and one of Thompson's counsel in the slander suits, who immediately had a warrant issued, and Dr. T. taken into custody. The jury then met in the Court House, and after hearing the testimony of the physicians and other witnesses, adjourned until this morning. A large crowd was in attendance, and manifested great interest in the proceedings. Dr. T. manifested considerable anxiety during the examination, but appeared perfectly composed after his arrest.

Such are the facts as I gathered them from those who were present. Whether he be guilty or not remains to be determined. If he be guilty of what is alleged against him, he has upon his head the most horrible crimes that can be conceived, seduction and double murder, the seduction and murder of his betrothed, and the murder of his own unborn offspring. Of his guilt or innocence we express no opinion, as it would be improper, the matter having to undergo a judicial investigation. We can scarcely believe, however, that any human being can be guilty of crimes of such enormity as are laid at his door.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.—William Neil, aged 28 years of Lexington, in this State, being at Columbus with a drove of cattle on Friday last, in stepping from one car to another, missed his footing and fell across the track; The wheels passed over his body, injuring him so much as to cause his death at half past two o'clock. He was conscious up to within a short time of his death, gave instructions to telegraph word of the unfortunate occurrence to his partner, who had gone to Cleveland, and also to his wife, to whom he directed his pocket-book should be given.—Courier.

An Editor out west, in speaking of his domestic increase, gives the following:
Sound the stage horn blast the trumpet,
That the waiting world may know!
Publish it though all our borders,
Even unto Mexico!
Seize you pen, oh dreaming poet!
And in numbers smooth as may be,
Spread far the joyful tidings,
Betsy's got another baby!

The Washington correspondent of the Maysville Express says that Gen. Butler, of Kentucky, is likely to be the Democratic candidate for President, and that the Kentucky delegation were not consulted in regard to the appointments of Gen. Butler as governor of Nebraska.

Strengthening the Bands of the Union.—His Excellency, Gov. Wright, of Indiana, was yesterday morning united in marriage to Miss Harriet Burbridge, daughter of Capt. Robert Burbridge, of Scott county, Ky. This we see that the Governor meant something more than mere compliments when he spoke so eloquently last winter of the love of the Hoosiers for the Kentuckians, and the intimate and affectionate relations that should subsist between them.

The Governor and bride reached Frankfort about two o'clock, met a number of ladies and gentlemen at Governor Powell's, and took the cars for Louisville at four.—Commonwealth.

Infamous Conduct of a Dentist in Philadelphia.

We announced in our paper of Wednesday the arrest of Stephen T. Beale for improper conduct toward a patient. We now give an account of the affair as printed in the Philadelphia Pennsylvania.

"On Monday afternoon, Stephen T. Beale, dentist, had a hearing before Mayor Conrad on the charge of violating the person of a young lady nineteen years of age, who went to his establishment for the purpose of having her teeth attended to."

"It is alleged by the young lady, who lives a short distance from the city, that she went to Stephen T. Beale, who resides in Walnut street, above Twelfth, for the purpose of having her teeth attended to. She was in the habit of going there for professional operations, as was all her family. She continued her testimony as follows:

"I arrived in town on Friday last about 6 1/2 o'clock; I got out of the cars at Eighteenth and Market street, and walked to Mr. B.'s; I saw nobody at Mr. Beale's save the girl who let me in; I saw Mr. B. in the parlor and with him went into the office, which is in the second story back room; I took off my bonnet and took a seat in the operating chair; Mr. B. gave me a book to look at, and said some of his workmen wanted him to attend to some work; he left the room and returned after a short absence; he commenced to fix my teeth; it was very painful; it was to be plugged; he then wanted to put something in my tooth to kill the nerve, but I told him I did not wish it done, it would be so painful; he proposed to give me ether, which I consented to; he gave it to me for some time until I was stupefied; he did not continue to operate on the tooth; he perceived (some time after I had waken the ether) that I was conscious; he proposed to take the tooth out; I said I was afraid it would hurt me; I had an open dress on; he put his hand on my breast; he then raised my clothes, and he knelt down upon a stool upon which I had my feet; he then put his arm around me and drew me toward him; he violated my person; of all this I am positive; he went across the room and washed his hands; I was still sitting in the chair; he came back and smoothed my dress, and then lifted me high up in the chair; in a few moments he spoke to me, and said he would have to take out one of those teeth; I asked him why he would have to take it out; he said he could not save them both; while under the influence of ether I felt benumbed and ached, but I was perfectly conscious all the while; I could not speak nor move; he gave me more ether and pulled the tooth; I got out of the chair and he helped me to a rocking-chair, and then he brought another lady up stairs to fix her teeth."

After relating a conversation that took place between Mr. B. and the lady, she continued:

"I sat a while and he introduced me to the lady; I put on my bonnet and he went down to the front door with me; when I left it was about 12 o'clock; he told me to come at 2 o'clock to day; no one came into the room from the time I entered it with him until the lady; he shut the door, saying the small ether would go all over the house; I asked him to stop an omnibus, and he said I had better walk; I walked to Third and Lombard st.; no attempt was made to operate upon my teeth until he committed the outrage upon my person; I was not conscious that Mr. B. was preparing another tooth for plugging."

Held in $5,000 to answer at court.

WEIGERT EXECUTED.—On Saturday last, about 10 o'clock in the morning, William H. Weigert suffered the penalty of the law, by hanging, for the murder of Luther C. Cushing, in December last. The particulars of the murder we have heretofore given to the public, as well as an account of the trial and conviction. Since his conviction and sentence, in June last, Weigert has had the spiritual advice of several of our protestant clergymen, among whom we may particularly mention Rev. M. Pratt of the Baptist Church, and Rev. E. F. Berkeley of the Episcopal Church.

We learn that Weigert became very seriously impressed with a consciousness of his wicked life and the enormity of his crime in taking the life of Cushing. He had never been brought seriously to think of his responsibility to God and of the moral consequences of his wicked course, until reflection was forced upon him by the awful condition in which he suddenly found himself placed. He had, by indulging his evil passions, by associating with those who scoff at the ordinances of religion and repudiate the moral government of the Most High, so hardened his conscience and debased his moral nature, that he seldom thought of his accountability to God; or if such reflections ever arose in his mind, he dismissed them with a sneer, as though the efforts of his own will were stronger than the eternal laws which God has prescribed for His intelligent creatures. Judge, then, of the extent of his alarms, of the terrible nature of his feelings, of the reproaches of his awakened conscience, when the instructions of good men and the solitude of that dark dungeon forced reflection upon him. Tremblingly, and with fearful forebodings, we are told, he bowed his head in sorrow and anguish, and acknowledged that there was a God, whose just laws he had outraged, whose moral government he had spurned, whose mercies he had abused, and whose just condemnation he had wilfully and mockingly called down upon his own misdeeds. Reflection, long pent up, new bursts forth with redoubled energy and power; the voice of conscience, long stifled, now spoke in tones which thrilled through all his nature and terribly shook all his frame, crying guilty, guilty; and the awful penalty which awaits guilt loomed up before him in all its fearful reality.

This state of feeling, we are told, was succeeded by glimmerings of hope, which again relapsed into gloom to be again succeeded by hope. Finally, he went to the place of execution, in the suburbs of the city, quite calm, expressing himself ready to die, and taking the fearful leap with becoming fortitude. At the scaffold he knelt in prayer, and after a hymn was sung, the vehicle was driven from under him, and left him suspended. He remained hanging for about half an hour, when the body was cut down and all that remained of William H. Weigert was consigned to his friends. Thus was the majesty of the law and the peace and security of society vindicated. Let the violent take warning from this example; and let him that standeth take heed lest he fall.—Statesman.

Murderous Assault on an Editor.

In the Courier of Monday we mentioned the fact of Col. Pike, editor of the Paris Flag having been assaulted by a man named Flournoy, in Lexington. The cause of the assault was the publication of a paragraph wherein Matt. Ward was styled a murderer. Col. Pike gives the following account of the affair.

Soon after we started to Megowan's hotel, where we expected to dine, and after getting on the pavement, and about to take leave of Col. Taylor and the other gentlemen present, the same man who had been pointed out to us on the cars as Flournoy, crossed over from the Phoenix hotel, and coming up to us, asked, "Is your name Pike?" to which we replied "yes, sir!" He at once, and without uttering another word, drew back a huge club which he held in his hand, and aimed a deadly blow at our head, which would probably have sent us to another world, had not Col. Taylor, who was near us, warded off the blow by dexterously throwing up his arm. He drew to strike again, when Col. Taylor, our son, and perhaps others, sprang between us, and some kind hearted friends who were present, assisted us in getting into the office, and up stairs in the compositor's room, where we had to remain for some time in duress or run the risk of being assassinated in the street if we went out. What took place below, after we went above, we are not able to state, but we understand that Ward's friends, to the number of forty or fifty, had congregated at the Phoenix to witness the assault, and to aid if necessary. A number of them rushed across about the time we were going up stairs, but there was, we believe, no further violence.

Being altogether unarmed, and too feeble to protect myself against such fearful odds as we have been, and our son unarmed also, resistance would have been vain, as well as fatal to us both, as we were surrounded by one mile and comparatively strangers to the cities.

CORRECTION.—LETTER FROM HON. JOS. G. MARSHALL.—In our brief synopsis of Capt. Craig's speech at the Court House, the following paragraph occurred:

Capt. C. denounced in strong terms Jos. G. Marshall, Esq., one of Miss Webster's counsel, who, as he was regularly informed, exerted all his powers in his speech to inflame the crowd against Kentuckians, and at the conclusion of the trial the mob around cried out, "Now let us give Craig a—!"

We have received a letter from Mr. Marshall in which he explicitly denies this charge, as follows:

"* * * 'Craig is so represented as having used the following language in reference to me: 'Jos. G. Marshall, one of Miss Webster's counsel, who as he (C.) was regularly informed, exerted all his powers in his speech to inflame the crowd against Kentuckians, &c.' I do not know, of course, what may have been told Craig, but I do know I made no effort to inflame the minds of the crowd or any one, either against Craig or Kentuckians; nor did I say anything that ought to have such effect. * * * Nor did I speak of the death of Coleman as a judgment of God.'"

Mr. Marshall is, we believe, a native of Kentucky. He has long had the reputation of a man of fine talents and high character, and we are pleased to learn from his own pen, that he has not been guilty of the disreputable proceeding charged upon him. Capt. Craig was doubtless misinformed.—Commonwealth.

Alf. Allen, Esq., the able Commonwealth's attorney in the fifth judicial district, who rendered such faithful service as prosecutor in the Ward case, is at the present time in our city. The benefit of his health that has been for some time greatly impaired is the object of his sojourn among us.—Louisville Courier.

We are sure that we betray no confidence when we state that this able Commonwealth's attorney of the fifth judicial district, who rendered such faithful service as prosecutor in the Ward case, said to us on Wednesday, after having read all the Courier's articles against Judge Kincheol, that Judge K.'s charge to the jury was the most unexceptionable one that he ever heard of read his life.—Journal.

AN ABOLITIONIST MOBBED.—A fellow from Ohio, named Graham, made his appearance in Cincinnati, on Friday last, with a patent plow to sell. On Saturday he went to Mount Carmel to Church and representing himself to be a minister of the Christian church, obtained leave to preach in the house in the afternoon, which he did. At night, pretending to go to bed he slipped out and went to an African church, where he mounted the pulpit and harangued the slaves assembled, on the subject of the efforts made in Ohio for their deliverance. He was observed by some white person outside, or informed by some of the negroes, and on Monday morning he was waited on by some of the citizens and requested to leave town, which he refused to do. He, however, finally agreed to leave on the cars, but instead of doing so, endeavored to hire a conveyance to come to Bourbon.—Rumors of his conduct having got circulated the town, then full of people from the country, great indignation was excited, and he was pelted through the streets with eggs, and had to be taken to jail to protect him from the mob, some of whom, however, obtained access to him and blacked his face with lunar caustic. At length he was got into a baggage car and started home. The man was no doubt a simpleton or a fool hardy fanatic, and ought to thank his stars that he got off as well as he did.—[Paris Citizen.]

The case of Mr. GRAHAM, the plow manufacturer, of Preble county, who was mobbed and egged by the people of Cincinnati, Kentucky, on suspicion of being an Abolitionist, is a hard one. Beside the pelting with rotten eggs, his face was so disfigured with indelible ink, that he is scarcely to be recognized by his friends. It was already been proved to the satisfaction of Kentuckians themselves, that Mr. Graham had never been concerned in any Abolition movement in the North much less in an attempt to run off slaves from their masters. But injures that money, nor blood even will recompense, have been inflicted on an innocent man who must carry to his grave the marks of mob violence.—Commercial.

Southern Domination.
The governor of a free and sovereign State could not be married the other day without a written permit from the clerk of the court of a small county in Kentucky. What has Horace Greely to say to this piece of Southern arrogance?

Northern Aggression.
On Tuesday last, the governor of Indiana took by force of arms, a young lady from the very centre of this State, and bore her off to Indianapolis unmolested. The lawyers say there is no remedy; that the paladium of liberty, the writ of habeas corpus, affords no relief.—Lou Dem.

PUBLIC SALE! THE HERALD.

OF A FINE SCOTT FARM.
On Wednesday, 27th day of September, 1854.

I WILL (no preventing Providence), offer at public sale the farm upon which I reside, containing nearly 200 ACRES OF LAND!

Said farm lies half a mile south of Georgetown, in full view of town and college; bounded on the west by the Georgetown and Lexington turnpike; on the north by the Georgetown and Lemon's Mill pike; on the south by Thomas Smith's land and on the East by D. Howard Smith's land. No better neighborhood in Kentucky. My family physician considers this the most healthy situation he knows of; it is good land, in good repair and mostly in grass; abundance of

CORN AND HEMP LAND.

There are eight or ten beautiful Building Sites upon the farm. Its well watered—indeed the best drinking water in the county. Ponds and springs abundant. A poultry and most

COMMODIOUS DWELLING,

with nine rooms and six porches—inhaling healthy breezes in the hottest weather. Good carriage and hemp houses; a first rate pair of cattle scales—worth $150—covered in. An excellent Barn and Stable, weather-boarded and protected from lightning. A number of fruit trees, and a

HANDSOME VINEYARD,

bearing. I have had a number of acres laid off into

BUILDING LOTS

of from four to five acres each, on the Lexington pike, most eligible grounds,—commanding a fine view of Georgetown and a pleasant country, which will be offered separately from the main body of the farm. Any quantity desired will be sold in this way.

Now is the time for persons desiring beautiful improvements upon pretty situations, executed after their own tastes. I will sell also at the same time and place of excellent timber land, lying 9 miles north of Georgetown,—14 miles west of the Cincinnati pike, in the rear of James and Robert Fishes' land, on said pike. Also a considerable variety of Farming Implements, wagons, carts, ploughs, &c.; also an excellent yoke of work cattle and a number of good cows and calves of good stock. The corn, hemp, oats and wheat will be sold, and a lot of Sows, Pigs and Hogs. Also a Fine Family Carriage.

The friends of the subscriber are very loth to part with him, but he wishes (no regretting to leave the finest "country" in the world), to remove to Texas, Nebraska, Oregon or Illinois. Indiana, I would prefer selling at private sale.

OUR INVOICES OF PIANO FORTES
are arriving so rapidly that we have been compelled to store ten or twelve during the past week, and while our sales are increasing weekly, our present ware-rooms are entirely inadequate to our wants. We hope, therefore, that no one wishing to purchase a first rate Piano, this Summer, will fail to take advantage of the extraordinary inducements we are offering at this time; and let us here say our word in regard to C. & S. & Co.'s instruments. This house has been spent for this celebrated factory about twenty years, and we conscientiously think, and therefore positively assert that these Pianos are in all respect equal to what they have ever been, and in some, much superior. We say, without fear of contradiction, that, as a whole, their equal cannot be found in this country.

In this age of progress and of iris-hued variety, an editor that faithful friend of the public, is oftentimes sorely puzzled to 'keep up with the cars,' in other words, to keep his readers well posted as to all that is occurring new and of interest—true it has been said, 'that there is nothing new under the sun,' (we marvel if good old Solomon knew aught about the electric telegraph, and steam engine!) well at least there is constantly happening re arrangements, combinations &c., which bestows an air of novelty over many an ancient theme, and way worn subject.

Thinking over the wants of our readers, and lamenting over the scarcity of news, we chanced upon some of the admirable, wonderful and sublime works, of that good and great man Swedenborg; and we could not but be surprised, that thoughts and doctrines of such beauty and value, should have been so long neglected by that great medium the Press; and then reflecting that all things must have a beginning, we, having pen in hand, commenced collecting

'Full many a gem
Of purest rays serene.'

for the examination of such of our readers who possessing, true christian principles gladly welcome every truth, and all things pure and good, even though they may not be embraced in the doctrines, and creed of that church of which they chance to be a member!

The bigot and the fanatic may glance with contempt over these selections, but the man possessing vital religion, and who adds to that an inquiring and receptive mind will peruse with exceeding satisfaction;

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

From the Writings of Swedenborg.

Conversion is not an instantaneous change as is supposed by many; nor is it an act accomplished at once, and then over forever, it is as continuous as Regeneration, and Regeneration is as continuous as is the life of the soul.

Repentance is the first step in conversion, that is the renunciation of self love, and the love of the world, as they manifest themselves in the particular acts of an evil life; It involves self examination the explorations of the affections and thoughts by the light of Heaven, and the sincere renunciation of whatever is evil and false.

Conversion is turning away from self to the Lord—it is turning from the World toward Heaven—it is a renunciation of all selfish and mere worldly pursuits, to the Lord, to the church, and to the good of all.

Redemption was not effected (as the world too generally believes) by the son of God, submitting to be crucified in order to appease the WRATH of our Heavenly Father—Redemption was effected by GOD HIMSELF! He assuming human nature, and in that nature meeting and conquering man's spiritual foes; thus enabling Him to act in freedom, to see the truth, to put away the evil of his doings—to cease to do evil,—to learn to do well.

The Divine Word contains an interior sense and when this sense is understood, reason and revelation may be made to harmonize, which with the mass of mankind at present is not the case.

The views of the old Churches concerning the fall and the recovery of the human race are utterly at variance with our intuitive ideas of justice and propriety, that is in direct opposition to the common sense of mankind.

The Bible when made clear by the light of Heaven, contains all useful knowledge; and knowledge not drawn directly or indirectly from the Bible, and not in harmony with it, is utterly unknown in Heaven, and can therefore be of no substantial use to any immortal being.

What an important truth is this for all parents to become acquainted with—and how unwise and sinful is it, to waste years and lavish money in acquiring a fashionable, versus a modern education, which when acquired, is of no benefit—possibly, but a hindrance to an entrance into, or to the perfect enjoyment of Heaven.

When we read a bad book, we are exposed not only to the evil and false principles that it contains, but also to the evils and falsities of those wicked spirits with which the book most certainly associates and surrounds us.—The reverse of this statement will show the doubly delightful influence produced by a book breathing of truth and of purity.

'We can only properly instruct our children the heritage of the Lord' by becoming ourselves the doers of the truths and good we would wish to inculcate; and if the divine Word be in our hearts—in our souls, we shall have but little need of teaching them in the form of tasks, for our every word and action speaking to them—our children cannot live with us without learning of us.

Oh, most truthful words and most responsible parents; and does not this explain our too frequent failure with our precious little ones? Do we not too often teach the lesson "Do as I say, not as I do!" In natural things children are the reflex of their parents' acts, are they not, too often the same in holy and heavenly things?

To such of our readers who are sincere and earnest seekers after Truth—to such, and their name is legion, who stand shrinking and doubtful on the brink of skepticism we would recommend to subscribe for "The Messenger" a semi-monthly magazine devoted to the principles of the new Church. The April No. will be found most profitable and pleasing address Rev J. C. Stuart, Cincinnati. Terms $1.25 a year in advance.

FASHIONABLE BONNETS.—In a neighboring village, a lady, determined to be in the very height of the fashion, entrusted her fashionable bonnet to the care of her servant in order that it might be as far back on her head as possible! The result was, that on her arrival at her place of destination, she found herself minus bonnet and servant. The former being in possession of the latter; who, taking advantage of the distance which lends enchantment to the view, had cloped to Cincinnati, bonnet and all! We testify of that which we know; or of which at any rate, we have reliable authority for asserting. Even 'old Zack' won't deny our assertion.

Complaints reach us from every quarter almost of the shortness of the crop; and many, in anticipation of hard times, are looking with dread to the future. The best advice we can tender to those afflicted with these distressing anticipations is, to economize expenses, cut off all extras, such as cigars, tobacco, whisky, &c., &c. Keep out of debt; keep cool, keep clear of doctors, drink and all similar evils; but lastly, and to conclude, if you wish to weather the approaching storm, secure an easy conscience, and save yourself from the fangs of our collector, 'walk up to the Captain's office and settle!'

THE BANKS OF TENNESSEE AND INDIANA.—The excitement among the bill holders of the banks of the States has subsided. The brokers yesterday were buying freely at former rates of discount, and we have no doubt in a few days confidence will be entirely restored.

The usury laws will probably be repealed in England, a bill to that effect having been read a second time in the House of Lords. The Marquis of Lansdowne said the time had come for altogether abolishing these laws. Lord Campbell rejoiced to have lived to see the day when the usury laws received their death blow. Lord Broughman, on moral as well as mercantile grounds, also rejoiced at the destruction of these laws as they were not only mischievous, but presented loop holes for evasion.

The majority for Stites over McHenry, for Judge of the Court of Appeals, will be about 5,000. The official and reported majorities in all the counties in the district except Fulton, Hickman and Crittenden give Stites a majority of 450.

Assault on an Editor.

We learn from the Paris Flag that an assault was made upon its editor, in Lexington, the other day, by Thompson Flournoy, a relative of Matt. Ward, in consequence of a paragraph published in that journal of the preceding week, reflecting in very harsh terms upon Matt. Ward. The paragraph, as we conceive, was altogether uncalled for, exceedingly bitter and very ungenerous; esteeming Col. Pike as we have reason to do, we feared at the time that the hot blood of some of Mr. Ward's friends would prompt them to inflict personal violence upon the editor in retaliation for the publication of the offensive paragraph—a paragraph prompted no doubt, by momentary impulse, and with no evil design upon the part of Col. Pike.

Our fears have been realized; Col Pike has been violently assailed, and probably escaped with his life, only by the prompt interposition of his friends; he being a feeble man, and entirely unarmed, while his assailant is represented as a very large man, and was armed with a club or cane.

This is all wrong; no possible good can accrue to any party by any such attempt to muzzle the press; public sentiment in Kentucky will frown down all such attempts, and, proceeding from what source it may, put its seal of condemnation thereupon. When will men learn that two wrongs can never make a right; and cease to act upon the dictates of impulse and passion which ever defeat their own purpose? When, we say, will reason and religion curb the passions and guide the actions of the impulsive and hot blooded sons of "the Sunny South?" Col. Pike, if he had designed malice, could not have written a paragraph better calculated to create sympathy on behalf of Matt. Ward, in all generous minds; and Mr. Flournoy, if he desired to benefit his friend and relative, could not have adopted a better mode of prejudicing the public mind against him, than by his assault upon Col. Pike. We speak "more in sorrow than in anger," when we assert that the action of both gentlemen was highly reprehensible; we regret both occurrences, equally the promptings of thoughtless impulse, on two grounds. One is, that the freedom of the Press, in Kentucky (no ways remarkable) should be struck a blow in the person of Col. Pike one of its most competent and fearless exponents. Another, because the action of Mr. Flournoy has but added rancor to public sentiment against Matt. Ward; partially paralyzed the efforts of his true friends to stem the torrent of prejudice and persecution, (which has hitherto borne him down, and, as it were, crushed him to the earth,) by placing in the hands of his personal enemies, demagogues and petty panderers to popular prejudice, another powerful weapon whereby they may inflame public sentiment to his personal prejudice and even to the prejudice of those who, through conscientious regard for truth, justice and mercy, would venture to offer in his behalf, "a plea in abatement."

Would to heaven that wiser and more prudent counsels had obtained with our esteemed friend of the Flag, and the indignant friends of Matt. Ward; whereby unwarranted and ungenerous contumely would have been spared; the liberty of the press preserved intact; and the laws of our common country held inviolate. Let us hope as good citizens and law-abiding men, that ere this both gentlemen have repented of their errors of the head, and that wiser counsels prevailing, they will learn wisdom by experience, and for the future respectively exercise toward each other and their fellow men, more charity and more bravery than to assail the character of an unfortunate man or assault the person of a feeble one.

Col. John C. Noble has purchased an interest in the Louisville Times, and will hereafter be associated with John O. Bullock, Esq., in the editorial as well as the property department of the paper. Wm. Tanner, Esq. retires from the paper, to engage in other pursuits.

A writer in the New York Mirror, speaking of the colored population of that city, says they are "poor, and live from hand to mouth. They seem to have no ambition to do dress; their conduct is frivolous, their habits very bad, and lives short; for the masses rarely reach the age of forty."

Four hostile newspapers, said the great Napoleon, 'are more to be feared than a hundred thousand bayonets.' The Little Corporal was right—Vox populi, &c.

Who censures all, his censure is profitless; who praises all, his praise is worthless.

The following article from the Cincinnati Commercial smacks smartly of froth and common sense; its facts are remarkably pertinent and precisely applicable to the present position of the Herald, even to the ultimate illustration of the demitting subscriber and generous patron forsooth, whose longings for an independent press were of the intensest character! Bah!

Breaking Down the Newspaper Press.

There is no time when a certain style of human-kind think they are in the way of more signally certifying their own importance than when they determine to strike a deadly blow at an obnoxious newspaper concern, by refusing it their patronage. Rather a comical case of that kind fell under our notice a day or two since. A city official, who could not content himself with paying his balance due to the carrier, and silently discontinuing his receipt of the Commercial, walking into our counting room and laying down, with an air of immense pomposity, the dimes which he estimated to be due, demanded that his paper should be stopped. The clerk being too busy to indulge in expressions of alarm at so portentous an event, quietly made the proper memoranda, and after lingering awhile, the indignant gentleman departed. He was, however far from being satisfied. He had expected a sensation, and was disappointed. Meeting, in the course of the day, one of our employers, he inquired how they felt, down at the office, since he stopped his paper; and received in reply, that the concern was still in existence.

It does not seem to be understood by many that it is one thing to stop their paper, and another thing to break down the press from which it is issued; and a few words may not be improper to show the position in which a journal like ours stands to those who purchase it. As near as we can estimate, the indignant gentleman who perpetrated upon us so deprived us; by the act, of a weekly revenue of from three-fourths to five-sixths of one cent. Taking the bare cost of paper, ink, and press work, and leaving out of the question the labor of editors, reporters and actual cost of every sheet we issue is equal, within a minute fraction of a cent, to the price which we receive. Add these items, and the cost of our circulation is over ten thousand dollars per year more than we get for it. In short, we do not look upon circulation as a source of revenue, and if any of our friends should feel disposed to weep for us because our contemporaries say we have lost part of our circulation, we beg of them to withhold their tears until they see us putting onions to our eyes.

But that nobody friendly to us, may be disturbed by reports, it is right to say, that the circulation of the Commercial is larger than it was one week ago, and is gaining daily and rapidly. Certain influence was brought to bear to affect it, under which our pecuniary resources suffered, during and week, as near as we can calculate, to the amount of one dollar and seventy-five cents. This loss was said to be in consequence of the expression of certain opinions not in unison with the views of some who consider themselves our patrons. Freedom of speech cost us one dollar and seventy-five cents; and to that extent we are poorer for having told what we believe to be the truth. Who under such circumstances cannot afford once in a while to speak his mind. The Commercial is making money. Its proprietors are careful, temperate business men, who understand their vocation, and are neither ashamed nor afraid to work at it. They are above being patronized, and under no necessity to curry favor by the suppression of a truth, or the utterance of a falsehood. Let the world wag as it may, we have not only the right to say our say, but the means to do it, and we prefer the approval of our own consciences to any wind that may blow, in any direction.

The manner in which some people understand the liberty of the press and freedom of speech in this land of republican institutions, is sometimes a little funny. We have no prescription here, of course. It is only Emperors that send editors into exile, and Popes give their subjects the choice of the chain-gang or the United States for entertaining opinions not in unison with their own.—Republicans believe in the doctrine of Mr. Jefferson, that "Error may be tolerated when Truth is left free to combat it." There is nothing we Americans love so much as an independent newspaper. We have had several conversations with a gentleman of this city, whose longings for an independent press were of the intensest character. He could only have said a thing here, how gladly would he contribute to its support. Right or wrong, so long as he is only independent and conscientious, the editor would command universal support. His mistakes would be tolerated, in consideration of his honesty, and no republican would complain at the free and fair expression of his opinions. The other day that gentleman stopped taking the Commercial! Our views disagreed with him. Well, as we said, we can afford it.

The date and number of this paper, on the outside, is incorrect. It should be dated August 24; current number 24; whole number 492.

HERP.—In St. Louis, on the 17th inst., there were 13,000 bales of hemp in store. Holders are anticipating considerable advances over present prices.

Since our article concerning the assault upon the editor of the Flag was put in type, we have received from an esteemed personal friend in this county, a statement with reference to that difficulty; which, in justice to Major Flournoy, our correspondent desires us to publish. The statements may be implicitly relied on; and to some minds it will go far in palliating if not in justifying the course pursued by Flournoy. While it affords us pleasure to comply with the request of our correspondent, we frankly confess that we see no cause to recall our censure of the action of Flournoy; others, whose opinions are at least worthy of as much respect as ours, may think very differently and possibly censure us for our candid expression of opinion with reference to the difficulty. Be it so; in the discharge of what we conceive to be our duty, we never pause to consider 'what will Mrs. Grundy say!' unless by soft words and hard arguments our reason is convinced that we have erred in judgment.

That Flournoy had heard of, but had not seen the article in the Flag before he reached Lexington; that immediately upon reading it he proceeded to the spot where Mr. Pike was; that he was not informed until after the attack, of Mr. Pike's apology to Col. Taylor; that the paragraph in the Flag was painfully wounding to the already lacerated feelings of Ward's relatives, then and there assembled at Blue Licks; and that Flournoy conceived that he was righting his own wrongs, in thus assailing Pike upon reading an article grossly offensive to him personally as a near relative of Ward; in short, that his attack was the unpremeditated impulse of personal indignation, extenuates somewhat, but by no means justifies his offence, in our eyes.

But this is a private question between Messrs. Pike and Flournoy, and we have no wish to scald our fingers in other folks' broth; so, having done simple justice, as we conceive, to both parties concerned, we shall, if possible, after giving a condensed statement of the communication we have received, bury the whole affair in the tomb of the Capulets! a course of action, the adoption of which we would sincerely and earnestly recommend to all parties concerned—especially the belligerent gentlemen. Our correspondent, who professes to speak from personal knowledge, says:—

"Mr. Pike charges that the relations and friends of Major Flournoy, to the number of some forty or fifty, armed, he would have it believed, had assembled, ready to fly to the rescue in case he should get the advantage in the fight. This is not true; it is belied by an own article, for the time which elapsed between his leaving the cars and the fight, could not, according to his own showing, have been more than ten minutes; for he says he went direct from the cars to the Statesman office. The shortness of the time, then, renders it utterly impossible that such combinations could have been formed. The truth of the matter is this: Major Flournoy had ladies with him in the cars; he went directly to Chiles' Hotel; the ladies were handed in at the private door, leaving Flournoy to be met by a friend who asked him if he had seen the paragraph in the Flag. He told him that he had heard of it but had not seen it. He handed the article to Flournoy, who read it, and then took possession of a cane which his friend held in his hand, while he handed him back his paper. His friend asked him what he meant. He told him the paragraph was evidently meant to wound Matt's friends, as well himself, and that he meant to whip the author of it on sight. He made his friend promise to say nothing and not to follow him. Two minutes did not elapse from that moment until Pike was attacked and under bars and bolts. There could not have been more than three or four persons who knew of the proposed attack; for Major Flournoy did not know of it himself ten minutes before it occurred. Mr. Pike had said: Flournoy was armed with a cane and nothing else; so they were on an equality. Pike charges that Flournoy attacked him on Ward's account; this is not so; under the circumstances of time and place, Ward's relatives had the right to think the editor of the Flag was as regardless of their feelings as he was of Ward's; and that he was ready and willing to take the responsibility of his act. The editor did not seem to so regard it; and his excuse for causing scarce stanch wounds to bleed afresh is in substance, that he did not know Ward was akin to certain families. A poor excuse, indeed! I do not know that their feelings are entitled to more immunity than others. The whole tenor of the published article and of the one suppressed, takes the ground that he would not have under the publication if he had known Ward's relatives; but not an admission, in effect, that the cruel shaft was not only expected to wound Ward, but also his relatives?"

"According to his own showing the editor only got the punishment he deserved; for the fault, it would seem, lies both in the whipping but in his not knowing who were Ward's relatives! Speaking of time and place making this paragraph personal to Ward's relatives, it is a fact that many of them, possibly only one hundred, were at the Blue Licks, within some 20 miles of Paris, where the Flag is issued; so that it could not be expected to escape their observation. In fact, did it not look as though it was maliciously designed to mar their pleasures, and incite them to new yet bleeding wounds? Where was the necessity for this cold blooded cruelty? Do Mr. Ward's friends lament the unfortunate occurrence which sent Professor Butler to his grave, as deeply as any persons on earth? And their sorrows could be measured by the services they would make [could they?] to restore Butler to life? I am sure that all would agree that their cup was indeed full to the brim! For not only would Ward, but all his friends, make any or all reasonable sacrifices to effect that restoration."

Respectfully your friend,

A man of philosophic temperament resembles a cucumber; for although he may be completely cut up, he is still cool.

On Monday last we attended at the Court House to hear Capt. Craig; but such was the density of the crowd and the heated and impure state of the atmosphere, that we found it impossible to remain in the building for any length of time; hence we are unable to give any report of his speech, which was about an hour and a half in length.

North Carolina Election.—Although the first advices looked favorable for the success of the Whigs at the recent election in North Carolina, it is now settled that the Democrats have carried the State, but by a considerably reduced majority. Bragg is elected Governor by a majority of less than three thousand. Two years ago it was 3,500. There will also be a Democratic majority on joint ballot in the Legislature, which will enable them to elect a United States Senator in place of Mr. Badger whose term will expire on the 4th of March next.

Look to our advertising columns if you wish to know how much is promised for a paltry $1 to Fortune's favorites!

The Panorama of the Holy Land, on exhibition at the Court House is eminently worthy of the patronage of our citizens, if we may rely on the evidence afforded by the favorable notices of our contemporaries. See advertisement.

Covier said that mankind was composed of hammers and anvils, and that it was much better to be a hammer than an anvil.

It may be that Col. Benton will yet gain a seat in the Thirty-fourth Congress. The New York Tribune advocates his election by some section of the country other than Missouri, urging that a constituency should not be restricted to the choice of a representative to the limits of its own district. The Tribune says: "We do wish some district would break over this foolish restriction and elect Col. Benton to the next Congress."

MATRIMONIAL.—Near Georgetown, Ky. on yesterday morning, August 15th, His Excellency Gov. WRIGHT of Indiana led to the altar Miss HARRIET, a lovely and interesting daughter of Robert Burbridge of Scott county, Ky. Governor Powell acted as groomsmen to his friend Gov. Wright. The spectacle of two distinguished chief magistrates officiating in one Hymeneal ceremony, we dare say has never been witnessed in this country before.—Kentuckian.

SCOTT FARM!

FOR SALE.
WISHING to remove to the State of Mississippi, I offer at public sale, the farm on which I now reside, on Monday, the 25th day of September, containing about 190 acres of first rate land, lying on the waters of Dry Run, Scott County, Kentucky, about four miles North of Georgetown, and about one quarter of a mile east of the Turnpike leading from Georgetown to Covington.
Said farm is in a very fair state of cultivation, with a very good comfortable dwelling and all necessary out-buildings. It has on it (very convenient to the house,) one of the best springs in the county; it has never been so low, at any time, that there has not been abundance of running water for more than 500 head of Stock. I also wish to sell at the same time and place:
20 head of Horses;
about 40 head of Cattle; of which are about 20 head of first rate Milch Cows;
about 100 head of Sheep;
Forty or Fifty head of Hogs, his standing crop, &c.
About 25 two year old Mules, in good order, and 14 Colts.
I also wish to sell 110 ACRES of good land, lying some half mile north of this. This tract has no improvements except that the land is nearly all cleared and in cultivation. I will sell the two tracts together or separately to suit purchasers.
Terms will be easy; and made known on day of sale; those wishing to purchase are invited to call and examine the premises for themselves. DAYTON EMISON.

Fine Shawnee Run Farm.

FOR SALE.
I wish to quit the business of farming on account of my continued bad health, and offer for sale my FARM situated in Mercer county four miles east of Harrodsburg, and eight miles north of Danville, in sight of the Lexington and Danville Railroad, containing 360 ACRES.
Of first rate land, in a very high state of cultivation and under superior fencing. One hundred acres of it is finely timbered and well set in grass; eighty acres of the cleared land is fine Hemp land, and the balance is No. 1 Corn land.
This farm is located in an excellent neighborhood, and is not inferior to any farm south of the Kentucky river, either as a Stock or Hemp land, being finely watered.
The Improvements consist of a good frame Dwelling, containing six rooms, two porches, and kitchen attached; also good frame negro houses, smoke house, carriage house, corn crib, stables, &c., all in good repair.
There is a young Orchard of choice fruit on the farm, also a great variety of other fruits. I will sell a bargain in this farm, and on terms to suit any one wanting such a farm. I would also sell several good with the farm, if desired on good terms.
ARMS AND LANDS
If not sold previously, I will sell the Farm, together with my Stock, Crop, &c., to the highest bidder, on the 3rd of October next, on liberal payments.

the Court House, Georgetown, Ky., on every Tuesday and Friday morning. I hope that my customers and the public generally, will patronize the house, as I intend to kill nothing but good beef—all the time, and a few lambs.

GEORGETOWN
DANCING ACADEMY.
MR. D. D. RICHARDSON
Respectfully announces to his former patrons and friends, that his

DANCING ACADEMY,
will be re-opened on Saturday, August 12th, 1854, at 9 o'clock A. M.
Mr. R. is again soliciting the patronage of the citizens of Scott, begs leave to return his sincere thanks for past favors, and hopes by a faithful discharge of his duties, to merit a continuance of their liberal support of his efforts to secure their approbation.
Spectators are not admitted on a general rule; but Mr. R. would be pleased to see at his room, during the lessons, parents and guardians of the pupils.
Terms $10 for 30 Lessons. Consisting of 15 days.
D. D. RICHARDSON.

READ THIS—MEDICINE FOR THIS RAFFLE—DR. HALL continues to be consulted at his Office, No. 57, East Third street, on all diseases of a PRIVATE OR DELICATE NATURE.
By a long course of study and practical experience of unlimited extent, Dr. H. has now the gratification of presenting the unfortunate with remedies that have never, since he first introduced them failed to cure the most alarming cases of

GONORRHEA AND SYPHILIS.
Beneficial treatment, all the horrors of venereal and impure blood, impotence, Scrofula, Gonorrhea, Ulcers, pains and distress in the regions of Procreation, Inflammation of Bladder and Kidneys, Hydrocele, Abscesses, Hemorrhoids, Frigidity, Swellings, and the long train of horrible symptoms attending this class of diseases, are made to become as harmless
as the simplest ailments of a child.
SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Dr. H. devotes a great part of his time to the treatment of those cases caused by a secret and solitary habit, which ruins the body and mind, undermines the unfortunate individual for either business or society. Some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth are, weakness of the back and limbs, dizziness of the head, dimness of sight, palpitation of the heart, dispepsia, nervousness, derangement
of the digestive functions, symptoms of consumption, &c. The least effects on the mind are much to be dreaded, loss of memory, confusion of ideas, depression of spirits,
evil forebodings, aversion of society, self distrust, timidity, &c., are among the evils produced. Such persons should, before contemplating marriage consult a physician of experience and skill and be at once restored to health and happiness.

AGUE AND FEVER cured in 24 hours,
warranted.
All letters addressed to Dr. L. Hall, box 1564, Cincinnati, O. Medicines sent to any address safely packed and secured from observation.
Office at No. 57, East Third street, bet

VENI VIDI VICI
PULVERMACHERS
Hydro-Electric Voltaic Chains!
ARE for the first time, presented to the people of Georgetown and vicinity, as a new, electric and convenient mode of applying Electro-Magnetism, in the most reliable and permanent cure of all nervous diseases
Rheumatism, Palsy of Heart,
Painful & Swell'd Joints, Rheum. pains of chest
Neuritis of the Face, Female Diseases,
Deafness, Blindness, General D. Bility,
Dyspepsia, Flatulence, Contracted Limbs,
Pains in the Back, Paralysis, Scrofula, History.—Pulvermacher's chains were first introduced into this country about one year since, in the City of New York, where they were subjected to the most rigid and thorough trial in every hospital to that city, by Professors Valentine Mott, Van Buren, Post, Carnahan who at once discovered that they possessed strange and wonderful power in almost instantly relieving all nervous pain wherever located, and as satisfactory, were the results
produced, in every case, that their opinions were published through the public press, and thousands have been induced to try them, and in no single instance have they failed to perform all we advertise to do. They are patented in this country, France, England, Germany, Austria and Belgium, and are in use in every hospital in Europe, and also in every hospital of N. Y. City.

No other Medical Agent can produce so many well authenticated cures of nervous and Pulvermacher's chains are produced only from intelligent persons, but introduced Physicians, and their use wherever introduced
has been unparalleled.
The chains are so constructed as to be worn near the skin, producing a constant current of Electro Magnetism—can be used by either adults or children never get out of repair, and with proper care will last for years.
Painful Rheumatism, &c., can be sent by mail to any part of the country. A pamphlet of 36 pages always accompanies each chain, and can be had of any agent, gratis.
CAUTION TO LADIES.—Ladies who are suffering are requested not to use them for a great length of time only for a few moments
for by continued use, miscarriage is frequently produced. For Urinary Pains, one end of the chain is to be applied over the abdomen,
and the other upon the spine, just above the hips.

DESIRABLE TOWN PROPERTY
FOR SALE.
THE family residence of Dr. W. C. Webb, located on Hamilton street is offered for sale. It consists of a large and commodious dwelling containing 9 handsome rooms,
besides an extensive store room, a good kitchen, Smoke house, ice house, &c. &c. Adjoining the dwelling are two convenient and roomy offices, adapted to the use of a lawyer or physician; there is also a

LOT AND STABLE
adjoining which might be obtained with the property, which is admirably adapted, in every respect for the residence of a professional man.
The whole property is in a most excellent state
of repair, having been well and repaired during this spring. Its location, on one of the most pleasant streets of the town, its proximity to the business portion thereof, and its numerous conveniences and pleasant surroundings, render it one of the most

DESIRABLE RESIDENCES
in town. Those who have any wish to procure such a property, are invited to call and examine the premises. For terms, (which will be made easy) in the absence of Dr. Webb, apply to Col. James Rankins, or at the residence, 10

SAVE YOUR ICE AND DRINK PURE WATER.
Economy, Convenience and Luxury Combined.
WINCHELL'S WATER COOLERS.
THE season is again at hand when the use of Ice becomes indispensable to the comfort and health of every family.
The undersigned has for several years past been engaged in the manufacture of the above named article, and has devoted much time and labor in perfecting them. Knowing their great utility, economy and convenience must bring them into very general use. They have become indispensable to every house keeper.
The fact has been demonstrated beyond question, that they will preserve ice longer than any of the devices which have been brought out for that purpose. The convenience of always having I. E. WATER ready for drinking, is fully appreciated by those who have used
this article.

The undersigned has larger and better facilities for manufacturing Water Coolers, than any establishment in the country, and is now preparing to supply them in any quantity.
To Merchants and others buying to sell a liberal discount is made. They can be packed and shipped to any part of the country with perfect safety.

for manufacturing, is now prepared to supply
dealers, on liberal terms.
Those who Dealers and others will find it greatly to their interest to purchase their stock direct from the manufacturer.
I have also recently made such arrangements with the manufacturers of TINNERS' MACHINES AND TOOLS, as to be constantly supplied. Among which will be found some newly invented labor saving machines, which can be seen in operation. All of which will be sold at manufacturers' prices.

SARSAPARILLA.
IN QUART BOTTLES.
For Purifying the Blood, and for the Cure of Scrofula, Rheumatism, Stomach Ulcers, Dyspepsia, Salt Rheum, Fever Sore, Erysipelas, Pimples, Bites, Mercurial Disorders, Cutaneous Eruptions, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Consumption, Female Complaints, Loss of Appetite, General Debility, &c.

IN this preparation all the restorative properties of the root are concentrated in their strongest strength and efficacy; but while the Sarsaparilla Root forms an important part of its composition, it is at the same time, compounded with other vegetable remedies of great power, and it is in the peculiar combination and scientific manner of its preparation, that its remarkable success in the cure of disease depends. It acts simultaneously upon the stomach, the circulation and the bowels; and thus three processes, which are usually the result of three different kinds of medicine, are carried on at the same time, through the instru-mentality of this one remedial agent which gently stimulates while it disinfects and expels
from the stomach and bowels all that is irritating, and at the same time restores their vigor and tone. Many other preparations imitate it in bearing the name Sarsaparilla, and in that their resemblance ends, being often prepared from worthless and inert roots, and of course possess no healing or curative properties, and patients in making choice of which they will use should take no other, but that one entitled to their confidence, from the long list of cures
it has effected on living witnesses, whose testimonials and residence have been published,
and who are still bearing daily testimony to its worth.

ASTONISHING CURE.
Patterson, N. Y. 20th, 1851
Messrs A. B. & D. Sands: Gentlemen,— Having witnessed the most beneficial effects
from the use of your Sarsaparilla, it gives me pleasure to send you the following statement in regard to my son. In the spring of 1848 he took a severe cold, and after eight weeks of severe suffering the disease settled in his left leg and foot, which soon swelled to the utmost.
The swelling was lanced by his Physician,
and discharged most profusely; after that no less than eleven ulcers formed on the leg and foot at one time. We had five different Physicians, but none relieved him much; and the last winter found him in a state of such exhaust that he was unable to leave his bed suffering the most excruciating pain. During this time the bone had become so much affected that piece after piece came out of which he has now more than twenty-five preserved in a bottle, varying from one half to one and a half inches in length. We had given up all hopes of his recovery, but at this time we were induced to try your Sarsaparilla, and with its use his health and appetite began immediately to improve, and so rapid was the change that less than a dozen bottles effected a perfect cure.

With gratitude, I remain truly
